4. The Planning Committee heard details of Heritage Homes’ plans for Pynes Farm Yard at its meeting in public on 20 September, ahead of the developer’s submission of a new full planning application. Heritage Homes now own the site. The key element of the existing permission remains: ten houses, with two of them being affordable homes. A survey of the existing buildings shows the stone walls are cracked, the cob is crumbling, and they will have to be pulled down. The new scheme includes a small strip of scrub at the top of the site, allowing a better green space. The new design allows more space for each house, and ditching the retaining walls of the original scheme. The design will use handmade bricks, cedar cladding, and barn-like tall windows, with zero carbon insulation and heating systems. The committee was impressed with the improvements over the old scheme, and looks forward to seeing the details of the application once it is submitted.

5. Update on planning permission and enforcement at Round Field The chair reports that the enforcement order on the Round Fields application (22/00826) that was refused has now been completed and is waiting to be signed off by the Principal Planning Officer.

6. Update on TDC progress on planning permission at Stevens Farm No further actions have been received or reported from TDC Planning Department on this application

7. Committee member reports and updates: None reported
